Course summary

Have you always loved the sound of French but never been able to grasp what's being said? Perhaps you've holidayed frequently in France and felt frustrated that you couldn't spark up a conversation in the bar or at the museum. Or maybe there's a chance you could go and work in France or one of the many other French-speaking countries in the world; would that be a promotion? An opportunity to spread your wings a little? There are so many reasons for learning French, so many motivations and rewards, but sometimes it can be difficult to know where to start.

Learning outcomes

By completing this course, the learner should be able to:

- say hello, goodbye and some of the first phrases to use when meeting a French speaker
- give one's name and nationality
- use greetings and partings in different settings
- recognise 'u' and 'ou' sounds and the basic rules of French pronunciation
- distinguish between masculine and feminine forms, spot the differences between them when reading and listening, and pronounce each form correctly.

Completed study

The learner has completed the following:

Week 1

Introduction

Say hello: 'Bonjour!'

Week 2

Names and nationality
